Republicans Tell Nation Their Side

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans tell the nation tonight and Saturday their side of the tax story—why they feel Congress should not cut taxes without a brake on spending.

The reply to President Kennedy's radio and television appeal for his $11-billion tax cut program will be launched this evening by Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin.

Byrnes, senior Republican member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, has pledged to "oppose the tax bill with every ounce of energy at my command" unless the House at least agrees to a spending limit amendment he has drafted.

The Conference of House Republicans has endorsed the Byrnes amendment.

Byrnes' talk will be carried by the ABC and CBS television and radio networks at 6 p.m. Eastern Standard Time today and by Mutual radio at 6:35 p.m.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri will speak on NBC television and radio at 6 p.m. Saturday. Curtis is senior Republican House member of the Joint Economic Committee and also serves on the Ways and Means Committee.

The networks, which carried on Wednesday Kennedy's appeal for quick passage of the tax bill without limiting amendments, made the equal time available at the request of the Republican National Committee.

Byrnes' amendment makes the cut inoperative unless the President submits in January or before budget estimates of spending not exceeding $97 billion for the present fiscal year, which began July 1, and $98 billion for the succeeding year. Both these figures are under the current estimates of spending.

Republicans contend they cannot rely on pledges, such as the one Kennedy renewed Wednesday, to control spending and drive for a balanced budget as soon as possible. They say the restraints must be spelled out in law.

The Democratic majority of the Ways and Means Committee wrote an economy declaration into the House bill and Kennedy endorsed it, but Byrnes dismissed this as a mere pious declaration and evidence of Democratic guilty conscience.

Nine Audits to Be Examined

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Nine audits, including the State Police audit for March 31 through June 30, will be reviewed Sept. 26 by the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee at Little Rock.

The State Police Department is expected to run out of funds this fall. It has been promised a loan from general state revenues to tide it over until drivers' licenses sales begin in January.

The other audits are of the Deaf School, Blind School, School for Negro Deaf and Blind, Supreme Court, Board of Barber Examiners, Reserve Fund Commission, Treasurer's office, and Cemetery Board.

'Dr. No' Best Film Thriller in a Decade

"DR. NO," first of Ian Fleming's James Bond adventures to reach the screen, starring Sean Connery, Ursula Andress, and Joseph Wiseman, produced by Eon Productions of London in Technicolor, released through United Artists.

A couple of months ago the Saturday Evening Post carried a feature article on a British author of mystery thrillers I had never heard of — Ian Fleming.

I got acquainted with him immediately through "Casino Royale" and "From Russia With Love," which popped upon the newstands. Ian Fleming, said the Post, was the top-rated mystery writer with the Kennedy family and government circles, both here and in England. Fleming's hero, James Bond, is a British secret agent engaged in a fantastic personal war with Russia and Communists throughout the world.

So much for the background of my visit to the Saenger theater Thursday night where "Dr. No," first of the Fleming epics to reach the screen, unfolded.

It outdoes Alfred Hitchcock at his best. I rate it one of the finest mystery thrillers in the history of motion pictures. It has the stars—the new Irishman Sean Connery as James Bond, Ursula Andress as the lead among a dozen beautiful women, and Joseph Wiseman as Dr. No—plus magnificent direction, fantastic action, and Technicolor treatment of the beauty of tropical Jamaica.

One word of caution to the theater-going public—for I have to tell the truth—this magnificent picture is on a double bill with a film that is as much of a stinker as "Dr. No" is a classic. "Terror of Blood Hunters," I believe is the name. This phoney jungle picture opens the night program at 7 o'clock, followed by "Dr. No" at 8:09. I recommend you hit the Saenger about 8 o'clock. This holds for Friday night. The schedule for "Dr. No" on Saturday is 2:09, 5:24, and about 7:30.

By OVID A. MARTIN

Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States appeared today to be on the threshold of new and more liberal agricultural trade relations with the Soviet bloc.

Whether it will cross the threshold may depend more on the Soviet leaders than American. A friendly gesture in the form of a Communist offer to buy surplus U.S. wheat could bring expanded trade with the Soviet Union and its satellites.

Soviet purchases this week of $500-million worth of Canadian wheat and $90-million worth of Australian wheat has whet the appetite of American producers, traders and some government officials for a piece of the big Iron Curtain market.

Lawmakers from farm states have joined to demand that the United States try to cash in.

Actually, barriers to sales of U.S. farm products to the Soviet bloc have been more imaginary than real. No laws or regulations ban such sales. In recent years Communist countries have bought a small quantity of some specialty American items, but none of the major crops such as grains, cotton, tobacco, and the like.

A major factor inhibiting U.S.-Soviet trade is that this country supports some farm prices above world market levels.

To make these products competitive in international trade, the government has offered subsidies on exports. But the subsidies have been denied shipment to the Soviet Union. Thus Moscow could not buy more cheaply elsewhere.

But a Soviet offer now to buy American wheat doubtless would bring a change in the government's subsidy policy. Certainly present agitation appears to favor such action and high administration officials have hinted that they favor it.

There are a number of factors which would make expanded trade advantageous to this country.

Sales of U.S. farm products to the Soviet Union for dollars would help improve a troublesome foreign exchange situation. In addition, such sales could reduce grain surpluses which now are weighing heavily on farmers' markets and income, as well as on the Treasury.

There is a danger, though, of expecting too much from improved U.S.-Soviet trade relations. Trade between the two has never been large. The Soviets are buying wheat abroad now largely because of an emergency situation—a short crop this year. No one knows—not even the Soviets—just how much grain they and their satellites and other dependent areas will need before the 1964 crop is produced and gathered.

One thing sure, it would be a mistake for American farmers to plant more wheat this fall in anticipation of sales behind the iron curtain, U.S. officials say.

Existing surpluses are considered to be more than enough to meet any Soviet orders, should they develop.

The Chamber of Commerce "Beef Promotion Week" hit a high point yesterday with a guessing contest for local citizens. Ned Purdie, prominent beef cattle producer, brought one of his prize bulls into town for the people to see and guess the weight.

The contest lasted for two hours and when it was over Mr. Purdie and the Hempstead County Cattlemen's Association President, Charles Key Jr., took the animal out to the University of Arkansas Experiment station where the official weight was recorded at 1,332 pounds.

Those guessing nearest to the official weight were: Ernest Hockett, of 506 Edgewood, 1,331 pounds; Ruth Brown 116 North Walnut, 1,330 pounds; Mrs. Willie Shepherd of Patmos, 1,329 pounds; Dee Coffee of Hope Route 4, 1,335 1/2 pounds; and J. E. McWilliams of Hope Route 4, 1,327 pounds. Prizes 1st through 5th were as follows: 6 T Bone Steaks, 3 Sirloin Steaks, 5 Pound Rump Roast, 5 Pound Chuck Roast and 5 pounds of ground meat. Certificates for these prizes can be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce office.

"Beef Eating Week" lasts through Saturday September 21st. The Cattlemen's Association and the Chamber of Commerce express their appreciation to all who have assisted in this promotion and remind all citizens to eat and enjoy beef throughout the year.

Seeks Aid in Scholarship Applications

Teachers, PTA's and other civic club are being asked to help further scholarship applications in Hempstead and other county schools of Arkansas, it was stated in Hope Friday by W. L. Shaddix, a former Alabama teacher who represents the free education materials distribution financed by the Southern Forestfire Commission, Inc., Birmingham 5, Ala.

Winner of a Harvard scholarship in 1917 which he could not accept due to extended Army service, Mr. Shaddix is visiting school and civic authorities in this and other areas to help arouse more interest among high school students on ways and means they can get their share of the numerous awards made available by altruistic tax-exempt foundations, wood industries, and banking groups.

Mr. Shaddix has helped the Commission in woods fire education over a long period of years, and has spoken to hundreds of school and college assemblies on ways and means that children can help keep down forestfire destruction.

The Commission in Birmingham is sending details of scholarships, and also offer of rent-free visual aids in full color-sound to anyone interested he stated further while in Hope.

The Commission and associate groups have held numerous south-wide conferences in Hot Springs, El Dorado and other centers of Arkansas to help orient the privately financed programs with existing agencies.

Birmingham Mayor Wants Peace Board

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Albert Boutwell welcomed today the appointment of a presidential commission seeking racial peace in troubled Birmingham.

But he disagreed sharply with Negro leaders who urged President Kennedy to send troops to maintain order in Birmingham, where the Sunday bombing of a church killed four Negro girls.

Kennedy talked to the Negro leaders at the White House Thursday. Five Birmingham community leaders will meet with Kennedy in Washington Monday.

Boutwell applauded the selection of the former Army football coach, Earl Blaik, and former Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall for the mission to Birmingham, praising them as distinguished and able men devoid of "any stigma of politics or partiality."

"We welcome, as a city and a people, the cooperation of any who are willing to understand our difficulties and be genuinely helpful in their solution," the mayor said. Royall, 58, an attorney, once was a state senator in North Carolina.

Blaik, 66, is chairman of the executive committee of Avon Corp. He was the coach who built Army into a national football power during World War II.

Shortly before Kennedy announced the appointments, Boutwell told newsmen many of Birmingham's troubles were caused by "outsiders both white and colored" who "have come in here and agitated to the point where they have made our people more tense."

After talking with the Negro leaders, Kennedy urged cooperation and restraint by all Birmingham citizens and announced appointment of the two-man commission.

He said the FBI and city authorities are making "massive

Joint Moon Shot Proposed by JFK in UN Address

By FRANK CORMIER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Kennedy today noted the apparent pause in the cold war and called for new U.S.-Soviet cooperation, including a joint expedition to the moon.

He also urged new efforts to ban weapons of mass destruction from outer space.

The President addressed the U.N. General Assembly which Thursday heard a policy declaration from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Kennedy matched the moderate, conciliatory tone set by Gromyko and hailed by U.N. delegates as a welcome change in the international atmosphere.

The one jarring note was a boycott by the Cuban delegation, whose seats were conspicuously vacant in the crowded chamber.

The President made no specific mention of Gromyko's proposal for an 18-nation summit conference on disarmament in 1964, but he laid heavy stress on continuing arms negotiations. He cautiously followed his reference to "a pause in the cold war" by a reminder that this is not a lasting peace.

The public was excluded from the galleries for security reasons, but the seats were packed with spectators—including members of the 111 U.N. diplomatic missions and U.N. staff personnel.

In a major foreign policy pronouncement before the United Nations, Kennedy said the negotiation of a limited nuclear test-ban treaty—which he predicted would win "overwhelming endorsement" from the U.S. Senate next week—could prove "the start of a long and fruitful journey" toward peace.

And he said it might be followed by a joint American-Soviet effort to place the first humans on the moon, "not as the representatives of a single nation, but the representatives of all humanity."

In his address prepared for delivery to the 18th General Assembly, Kennedy also called for steps toward disarmament and a broader test ban, abolition of racial and religious discrimination everywhere, and new efforts to strengthen the United Nations as an instrument of international cooperation.

The President's address had been awaited with mounting interest because it followed by one day a generally conciliatory talk to the General Assembly by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

In his only reference to Gromyko's talk, Kennedy said: "We must continue to seek agreement, encouraged by yesterday's affirmative response to this proposal, by the Soviet foreign minister, on an arrangement to keep weapons of mass destruction out of outer space."

With the reference to Gromyko's speech, which also called for a summit conference on disarmament next year, Kennedy went on to make his dramatic proposal for the joint moon shot.

In space, Kennedy said, both the United States and the Soviet Union have "a special capacity." Furthermore, he argued, both have agreed through the United Nations that they will make no territorial claims in space.

Having prepared this backdrop, Kennedy said: "Why, therefore, should man's first flight to the moon be a matter of national competition? Why should the United States and the Soviet Union, in preparing for such expeditions, become involved in immense duplications of research, construction and expenditure?"

"Surely we should explore whether the scientists and astronauts of our two countries—indeed of all the world—cannot work together in the conquest of space, sending some day in this decade to the moon, not the representatives of a single nation, but the representatives of all humanity."

Jokes Around the Samovar--

A Polish radio reporter asked a man in the streets of Warsaw what he thought of the harvest results.
"Oh, I think they're average!" "What do you mean by that?" "Worse than last year's but better than next year's!"

"What makes the Communist system superior to others?" the teacher asked Janos.
The boy answered: "The fact that it successfully copes with difficulties which do not exist in other systems."

A teacher asked a member of his class: "What is Communism?" "Communism," the boy answered, "is the victory of ideas over common sense."

The instructor in a mathematics class in East Germany asked little Hans:
"If one metric ton of coal costs 100 marks and your father orders 500 marks' worth of coal, how many metric tons will be delivered to your house?"
"Four and one half metric tons," answered Hans.
"That is not correct!" replied the teacher sharply.
"I know it's not correct," said Hans, "but what can we do? It always happens!"

Two citizens met on a street in the Rumanian capital, Bucharest.
"What's new?" asked one.
"Well, said the other, 'yesterday I spoke with an extremely intelligent man in a high government position and...'
"Oh," interrupted the first, "you made a long-distance phone call."

WHO'S FOR FREE ENTERPRISE?

The advocates of free enterprise develop strange inconsistencies. An example is the readiness of organized merchants to resort to such devices as Sunday closing laws when the competition gets too uncomfortable.

Some people who yell loudest for the free enterprise principle don't hesitate a second to ask the state and federal governments to hoist an umbrella of protection when they want to stifle their rivals. It happens nearly every year in Congress when the old hassle over "fair trade" comes up. Little noticed up to now is a powerful movement to enact a federal "fair trade" law that would eliminate price competition in the sale of trademark or nationally branded goods. The bill (H.R. 3669) is fanned up this time under the name of "Quality Stabilization" legislation.

The effort is backed by potent lobbies and congressmen appear ready to trip over themselves in their eagerness to be recorded as doing something for "small business". The campaign comes in face of the fact that state courts have invalidated wholly or in part more than two score "fair trade" statutes enacted under the authority of the act passed by Congress a decade ago. Moreover, the principle of the proposed federal law — authority of manufacturers to dictate prices — was knocked down by the Supreme Court in a key decision some years ago.

Enactment of the pending bill would mean that billions of dollars of additional costs would be saddled upon customers. It would besides serve to create a monopolistic system and put an impediment upon the merchandizing economy.

The bill strikes at the core of free enterprise — the right of the individual to sell products at whatever price he believes is to his profit and advantage. The travesty is that Congress is likely to yield to the pressure of those who would scrap that principle unless the nation's consumers awaken to the fact that they are about to be taken for a ride. THE STORY: Detective Lee Barcello questions Blake Carden, a lawyer, regarding George Gibbon who absconded with money from a brokerage firm. Blake had some dealings with the firm, but none with Gibbon.

Blake sat back while Detective

"The next morning Gibbon cleaned out his small checking account, and sold his car. He used most of that money to pay off three-payment loans he'd been carrying with finance companies, all of them slightly delinquent; total, thirteen hundred. Since he had to have transportation of some kind, he probably bought an older jalopy — of course under an assumed name. We know he's been heard from every few days."

Blake was finding it interesting, but still irrelevant.
"First he mailed his mother money to live on, along with a note saying please don't worry. The postmark was Madeira Beach. Next he phoned Mr. Masters, a local call, promising to repay what he'd stolen, given a little time. He sounded as if he meant it, and he proved it a few days later by mailing $400 in cash to Masters-Stowell as part payment. This week he sent his mother more money for running expenses. This postmark was Pass-a-Grille."

Without too many details, Barcello had said; but Blake was hearing quite a few. He wondered what lay behind all these particulars. Subtle method?
"Gibbon may be dodging from one motel to another. At any rate, he has had to pay out for rent, wherever he is, and for eating, drinking and miscellaneous. Add it all up — the repaid loans, probably a used car, the cash sent to Mother and Masters-Stowell, plus his own needs — and it amounts to more money than he took away. In addition there's his promise, made very much in earnest, to repay in full in a few more weeks. What this seems to mean is that Gibbon has raised funds from some other source, and he's expecting to raise considerably more."

"A man on the lam? How could he?"
"One way would be to appeal to the sympathy of some of his old clients, with the idea of getting personal loans from them. His advice on the stock and bond market did make money for most of them, you know. Does this approach strike you as unlikely, Mr. Carden?"

"Unlikely, but not illegal. It does raise a question. If Gibbon is borrowing from some of his old clients in order to reimburse Masters, how will he be able to repay them later?"

Barcello smiled faintly. "I've no idea. It's just a theory. It may not be valid. Still, off-hand, I can't account for Gibbon's extra cash in other way. Some people really are sothearted enough to fall for that sort of pitch. You wouldn't, naturally, but Gibbon is fairly desperate to save his neck and I thought he might have tried you."

"So that's it. No, Lee, he hasn't. He still might. If he does, I'll let you know."

On his way out Barcello paused with the door partly open. "I'm pretty close on his tail, I think. He's been seen in two banks, first in Madeira, 10 days ago, then yesterday in the Westcoast, downtown. Both times he changed a $100 bill into tens and fives."

"Oh?"
"And that's an interesting thing. The cash he sent to his mother and his boss were also $100 bills; and none of these came from Masters - Stowell's safe or the used-car buyer. So the question is, Mr. Carden, where did he get them — and how? ... Adios."

For the second time within half an hour Blake found himself staring at the closed door. Barcello had already learned about Blake's withdrawals, not only today's, but also the first, two weeks ago — which would be the week after Gibbon's disappearance.

Blake had wanted to get home earlier than usual in order to have his talk with Todd as soon as possible, but when he left his office it was 10 minutes past six. He drove southward on Gulf Boulevard between two rows of motels sitting as close together as dominoes.

Following his long - familiar course, a right turn beyond the bridge, then into the U-shaped bend of Bayvista Drive, Blake came upon the extravaganza of a house that Alec and Valerie Hayward had erected early in their giddy marriage. Beyond it, a private pier jutted into the bay; Valec was moored there. The weary old car belonging to Val's housekeeper, Amalia Wheeler, was berthed inside the garage, where it remained unmoved for days at a time, and Val's latest convertible sat gleaming in the sun in the driveway.

Confident Treaty Will Be Passed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has expressed confidence that the Senate will ratify the limited nuclear test ban treaty "by a margin large enough to show the world that the American people want a just peace."

Referring briefly to the treaty in his national radio and television address on tax legislation Wednesday night, Kennedy said the pact "is the first concrete limitation on the nuclear arms race since the bomb was first invented."

As the situation stands now in the Senate, Republican and Democratic leaders believe Kennedy will get his large margin.

So far 81 senators have lined up behind the treaty which would require 67 votes—a two thirds majority—if all 100 senators are on hand and voting Tuesday.

The Senate held its longest session of the treaty debate Wednesday, running almost 11 hours, and more speechmaking was on schedule today.

Miss Bacall Finds Life in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—That astute observer of the Hollywood scene, Lauren Bacall Bogart Roberts, is back in town and here's what she sees: Hope.

"Two years ago when I was here, the town seemed like an open grave," she commented. "Now there seems to be a different atmosphere. The old order is passing, and young directors and writers are taking over and doing things. There is new enthusiasm and life."

There is always life in town when Miss Bacall is here. She has returned from the New York apartment she shares with actor Jason Roberts and their assorted broods. Her assignment: Playing a villainous psychiatrist in "Shock Treatment."

During her stay here, Miss Bacall has lived at the beach, but she has seen enough of the local scene to make a report.

"There don't seem to be the big parties any more," she said. "The big names, died or moved away. Oh, there are some left. I suppose, but they keep to themselves or to small groups of friends."

"I think that may be just as well. The parties got to be common; there was no reason for them. It was the same way with premieres. Every other picture that came along had to have a premiere. The premiere as an institution didn't mean anything any more."

The actress is pained to find herself lumped with longtime movie veterans in reviews of Hollywood's golden years in television specials and books.

"I was only 19 when I started," she protested. "I was working with people who were double my age and more—two or three generations ahead of me. Now I'm made to seem like an old bag, and I'm not."

Indeed she isn't. The long Bacall gams, the throaty voice, the vogue-model looks seem in just as good repair as when she made her debut in "To Have and Have Not."

Highlights in Today's History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Sept. 20, the 263rd day of 1963. There are 102 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1873, the New York Stock Exchange closed in panic after the failure Sept. 18 of Jay Cooke, banker and agent of the federal government, with $14 million in deposits from all parts of the country.

On this date
In 1519, Ferdinand Magellan began his voyage that ended with the first circumnavigation of the globe.

In 1797 the frigate Constitution—"Old Ironsides"—was launched at Boston.

In 1863, Gen. George Thomas' troops withstood for six hours the assaults of the Confederate army at the Battle of Chickamauga.

In 1870, unification of Italy was accomplished when forces under Victor Emmanuel took possession of Rome in the name of the king.

In 1938, a hurricane swept through New England, Long Island and New Jersey, leaving thousands homeless and causing property loss estimated at $40 million.

Ten years ago...A North Korean pilot flew into a United Nations on the verge of despair.

King said the President, urged to send troops into the city, replied that the federalized National Guard is still on duty, and he would wait and see what developments.

efforts to bring to justice the persons responsible for the bombing on Sunday and previous incidents.

Boutwell said he asked for the meeting Monday in hope of portraying to Kennedy what he called the true story of Birmingham.

As white and Negroes continued to study peacefully in desegregated schools in four Alabama cities, a relatively quiet day produced these other developments:

A student boycott at one newly integrated Birmingham school began to fade as enrollment approached normal.

Negro Vivian Malone, admitted to the University of Alabama last June 11 under an escort of federalized National Guard troops, enrolled for the fall semester without incident.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. recalled the Negroes' conference with Kennedy very fruitful, but said Birmingham Negroes are "frustrated, confused and almost OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Cleve McDowell, now the only Negro student at the University of Mississippi since the graduation of James H. Meredith, expects to be treated like any other student.

McDowell, 21, registered Wednesday for the fall term at the university's law school—his second semester.

Like Meredith, he drove to school in a small, foreign sports car. He purchased the auto from Meredith.

Like Meredith's later days at the university, he drew some stares but no jeers or catcalls.

Like Meredith, he was housed in a dormitory on campus. He and Meredith shared a room in Baxter Hall dormitory during the summer. This term, he is in Leavelle Hall. Both McDowell and school officials refused to say if he had a roommate.

Unlike Meredith, McDowell was not accompanied Wednesday by federal marshals nor army troops.

He refused to talk to newsmen.

Accused Union Officer Posts Bond

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Eric L. Dicus of North Little Rock, who was indicted by a federal grand jury for embezzling $1,919 from the International Hood Carries Building and Common Labors Union, was arrested Wednesday.

He posted $1,000 bond and was released.

The indictment accuses Dicus of serving as manager of the union office at Searcy. He also was charged with making false entries in union books.

The union office at Searcy was maintained in connection with the construction of Titan II missile sites in central Arkansas.

Five years ago, integrationist leader Dr. Martin Luther King was injured when he was stabbed by a Negro woman in a Harlem department store.

One year ago...The Senate approved a resolution endorsing the use of force if necessary to prevent the spread of Cuban communism in the Western Hemisphere.

DOROTHY DIX

HE CHALLENGES

THE CLEOPATRA IN HER

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: There is a ghost in my life. My husband is a good provider and kind to me. We have two wonderful children. Now, for the ghost:

I married when very young, a man who wasn't the marrying type. I loved him but he didn't love me, so we divorced. Now he haunts my life. I remember the happy times we had together and the very thought still thrills me. He remains my knight in shining armor. This gives me a guilt complex for I'm old enough to know better and I would never leave my family. Yet I can't help wondering what I should do if this handsome ghost suddenly materialized and asked for a date. He still lives in our town and has never married so, sooner or later, we are bound to meet. Then what? —Haunted

Dear Haunted: Fret not, neither let pride gnaw you. Put your knight back in the museum of your dreams and let the dust gather on his armor. Chances are that there was never anything inside that armor. You are putting the man in it, and imagining that you missed something long ago. If he wasn't the marrying kind when you wanted a husband, he either wasn't the man for you or he wasn't a prospect at all.

If he should someday lift the visor of his steel helmet and wink at you, laugh and turn away, He missed the crusade. Don't let him cross the drawbridge to your home. You have everything to lose, he nothing.

There is only one kind of a man that a marrying kind of woman should be interested in, and that is the marrying kind of man. The man who isn't interested, who hangs back, doesn't respond, dodges the issue and changes the subject is likely to challenge the Cleopatra in any woman, and she'll even do foolish things to hook a reluctant prize. After marriage comes realization of the truth. She has been playing a game all alone, with her man a spectator. In courtship and marriage, it's a mighty poor affair unless two play.

Dear Helen: Cassie and I have been going steady for seven months. While we've had our fights we always make up and are very happy together. We talk of marriage and plan to fulfill our dreams in four years when I finish college.

Our problem is her parents. Her father thinks we see too much of each other. "This is bad," he says. "Familiarity breeds contempt." We've tried to reason with him but you might as well talk to a brick wall. We attempted in the beginning to do as he and her mother wished but this only brought on more restrictions. Now I'm going away to college. As it is, one of them must always be present to chaperone us when we meet. Is this fair? How can we get along with Cassie's parents and remain happy? —Michael and Cassie

Dear Michael: Once at college your problem will automatically be partially solved. Since you have four years of college ahead, it's too soon to be so serious about marriage that neither you nor Cassie can date other people. Lead a normal social life with no strings attached!

Unless she is much younger than you, I would think that your future dates together could take place without chaperonage. It's up to you and her to convince her parents that this custom is obsolete.

Dear Helen: I am quite handy at making things on the sewing machine but not at marketing them. Any suggestions? —Want to Produce

Dear Want to Produce: Query the Woman's Exchange in your area. Ask what articles are in demand and what they will sell for. This is a marvelous outlet for handwork of all kinds. If there is no Exchange nearby write the Woman's Exchange, 641 Madison Ave., New York City, for information.

Probably a more lucrative source of income would be making curtains, draperies, and slip covers, also doing alterations. You might put an ad in this paper describing these skills. You're bound to get a lot of business because there are innumerable women who can barely thread a needle. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Women at Work."

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sanders Favorite at La Jolla

DALMAHOY, Scotland (AP) — Doug Sanders of La Jolla, Calif., was the crowd favorite as a field of 130 golfers went after a $14,000 tri-city-shot payoff today in the second round of the 72-hole Dalmahoy Golf Tournament.

Sanders shot a 4-under-par 67 Thursday in the opening round and finished one stroke behind Peter Alliss, a British Ryder Cup player.

The first prize for the tournament is $5,600 — but the big attraction today was a prize of 14,000 for a hole-in-one at the short 155-yard 15th hole.

Sanders led the seven-man American contingent in the opening round with 32-35—67 over the 6,663-yard Dalmahoy course. Alliss shot 33-33—66.

Dave Ragan or Orlando, Fla., and John Barnum, of Belmont, Mich., fired 70s; Jackie Cupit, of Corona, Calif., and Bob Rosburg, of Portland, Ore., came in at 71.

Boston Wants th Braves Back

BOSTON (AP) — Boston wants the Braves back.

Mayor John F. Collins Thursday wrote to Braves President John McHale suggesting the National League baseball team which moved to Milwaukee from Boston 10 years ago, come home.

Rumors have been common lately that the Braves might move again.

News of Today in Washington

Today in Washington By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

TRADE WITH REDS: Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges has indicated the administration will undertake a study on whether to ease the U.S. embargo on exports to Communist bloc countries.

A committee of industrialists taking part in a White House conference on export expansion recommended a review of the policy, and Hodges told reporters Wednesday at the end of the two-day meeting:

"I should think we would take very seriously what has been suggested here."

AIR ROUTE: The plan for a New York to Moscow airline route — which has been on ice for two years — is expected to be brought up again next week in talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The air link, trade, space cooperation and disarmament are among the subjects expected to be discussed at the New York meetings, informants said.

The purpose of the talks will be to explore whether any further East-West agreements may be reached in the wake of the limited nuclear test-ban agreement.

HEALTH CARE: President

Kennedy's plan for health care for the aged will not reach the House for debate this year.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., confirmed Wednesday that the Ways and Means Committee, which will handle the legislation, is unlikely to take further action on the measure before 1964.

He assured the Rules Committee that he would not seek House debate on the proposal this year.

ANTI-SEMITISM: Nineteen members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee have called on the Soviet Union "to alleviate the reported conditions adversely affecting" Russia's Jewish community.

The letter was sent to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin Wednesday, the eve of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

Public Not Hopeful About Cut

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—For dramatic suspense the tax cut proposal has had few equals.

Most citizens seem to have adopted the attitude of wait and see, building few hopes on the conflicting moves in Congress.

Many are honestly confused as to the extent of the benefits or of the dangers if the federal budget is thrown further off balance.

Others think that whatever the federal government might allow them would be promptly taken away by state and local governments.

American businessmen and many stock market regulars have been more optimistic. Some have taken the cynical view that when the 1964 election campaigns really heat up, some form of tax cuts will look irresistible to Congress.

Immediate tax cuts were first proposed by a vociferous group at the time of the stock market break in May 1962 because they saw a recession breathing down their necks. The idea was shelved for a time because business and consumers alike largely ignored the stock market as a barometer of hard times coming.

Plans for a tax cut linked with tax reforms were set forth officially last January. Their chances have waxed and waned almost as regularly as the moon, depending on whether business was hesitating or surging ahead and not how congressmen interpreted the enthusiasm or worries of the folks back home.

Most of the reform proposals were sidetracked. The tax bill now before the House and headed toward an uncertain time schedule in the Senate is based largely on an effort to make the economy grow faster and thus provide the additional jobs needed to solve today's unemployment and to meet an oncoming rush of youngsters into the labor force.

This was the pitch that President Kennedy made Wednesday night for his tax proposal.

The idea is that a cut in the rates of taxes on individual incomes will give millions of Americans more money to spend on goods or services, or to make down payments on things they now want but can't quite afford.

And the better-off would have more money to invest.

Such investment, along with the extra cash that corporations could keep if the corporate income tax rates were lowered, would finance more business ventures or expansion.

The additional consumer spending, plus the increased investment, would lead to more production, and hence more jobs.

"Our conscience is clear," said Dionne. "Mrs. Dionne and I may not have been the best parents in the world and we undoubtedly made many mistakes, but we tried our best under very trying circumstances."

"I hate to think it was for financial gain, but if it wasn't for that what was it?"

In their story, told to writer James Brough and published Wednesday in McCall's magazine, the girls complained of hardships, misery and rejection by their parents and other brothers and sisters.

Porkers, Rest of SWC Open Play Saturday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference hits the football trail this week with the top-rated teams—Texas and Arkansas—figuring in opening games.

Texas, the defending champion, plays the first one. The Longhorns clash with long-time loser Tulane at New Orleans tonight. The Greenies will be putting an 11-game losing streak on the line with little hope of changing the trend.

Four conference members play Saturday night with Texas Christian mixing in the big one. The Horned Frogs, wondering if the quarterback situation will work out but experience-deep at all other positions, tackle Kansas at Fort Worth.

Arkansas meets Oklahoma State at Little Rock, protecting a six-game winning streak over the Cowboys. Oklahoma State throws a sophomore-studded squad at the Razorbacks, who have the most lettermen in Frank Broyles' tenure—28.

Texas A&M goes to Baton Rouge to clash with a young but defensively strong Louisiana State. The Aggies will be seeking their first victory since 1956 over the boys from the Bayous.

Out at Lubbock, Texas Tech hitches its wagon to Donny Anderson, a sophomore of fabled feats, as the Red Raiders try to get onto the winning road against a tough trial horse—Washington State.

More than 190,000 are expected to see the five openers, with the biggest turnout at Baton Rouge where 67,500 will jam the stadium.

Arkansas looks for 41,000 at Little Rock while Texas Tech-Washington State each expect 30,000 and 25,000 should be on hand at Fort Worth.

Baylor, Rice and Southern Methodist, the other conference members, wait until next week to start the campaign.

The first go-round: Texas-Tulane—Texas 27, Tulane 7

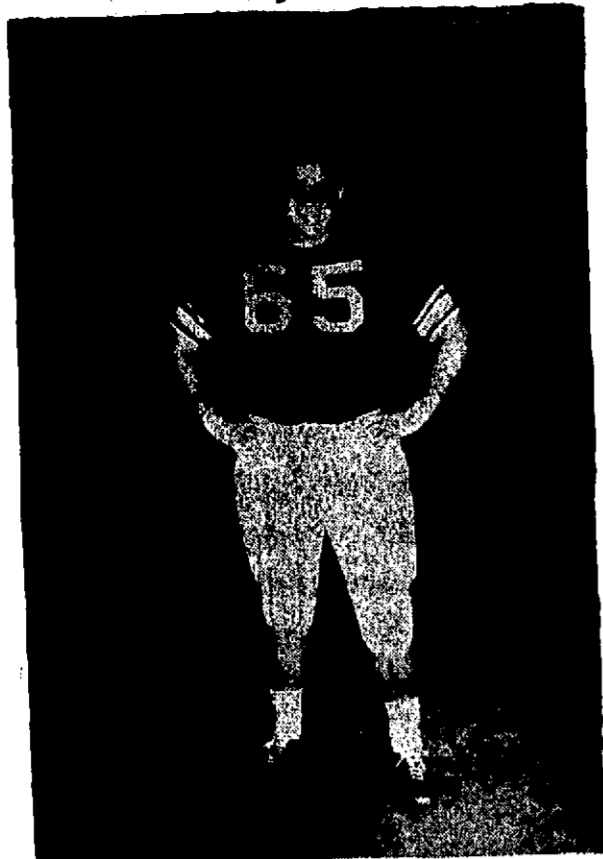

Texas Tech-Washington State—a close decision for Washington State.

Arkansas-Oklahoma State — Arkansas 34, Oklahoma State 13

Texas A&M-Louisiana State — A weak vote for the Aggies, say 14-7.

Texas Christian-Kansas — Texas Christian by a touchdown.

Meet The Hope Bobcats

Ricky Butler

Ricky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. (Tootsie) Butler and lives on the Rosston Road. Ricky, called "Toots" by his buddies, is a senior left guard where he has won two letters.

Ricky is a big, solid Bobcat, standing 5'10" and weighing 220 pounds.

Ricky is a member of the First Baptist Church. During the off-season he works for Byers DX Service Station. He plans to attend the University of Arkansas, and if he continues his fine play, Toots may be a future Razorback.

Ricky's father, Tootsie, is a line foreman for the Hope Water and Light Plant. His mother, Susie, operates Butlers Florist.

State Opens Season on Saturday

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State opens its football season Saturday night against a foe which has not dealt kindly with the Indians through the years.

The Eagles of Tennessee Tech will invade Keys Field to give new coach Benny Ellender's charges their first test.

State's team is, indeed, young and untested. Ellender has only two seniors among 15 lettermen—guard Jake Darby and end Mitchell Hale.

Tech beat Arkansas State 20-12 last year and holds a 9-2 edge in the series. The Eagles' fine showing against A-State came in a disastrous 2-8 season, one of the few bad ones Tech has had in 10 years under coach Wilburn Tucker.

State hasn't beaten Tech since 1955.

Darby, end Bob McCuiston and tackle Aaron White are the only starters returning from the 1962 State team which went 6-3 for the best record the Indians have had in seven years.

Ellender plans to use Gary Everett of Paragould at quarterback, Billy Joe Bailey of Jonesboro and Bill Berry of Poplar Bluff, Mo., at halfback and Harold Wallin of Marked Tree at fullback.

Tech's key players are halfback Jim Shaeffer, quarterback Jim Ragland and guard Bob Borkowski. The Eagles have 18 lettermen.

Aaron Has Solid Shot at Bat Title

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Hammerin' Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves has a solid shot at becoming only the 10th player to wear baseball's triple crown of batting, homers and RBI and the first in the National League in more than a quarter of a century.

The right-handed hitter, previously overshadowed by the tight pennant struggle, now has the stage and spotlight to himself in a bid to grab the coveted and elusive major league honor.

While Aaron, 29, continues his bid at Chicago today, the Los Angeles Dodgers open a nine-game home stand against Pittsburgh, hoping to wrap up the pennant race quickly after sweeping the vital three-game series with second-place St. Louis.

The Cardinals, four games behind with only seven to play, will be trying to keep their hopes alive at Cincinnati. Any combination of five Los Angeles victories and/or St. Louis defeats will give the Dodgers their first pennant since 1959.

Aaron, trying to become the first triple crown winner in the National League since Joe Medwick of St. Louis in 1937, leads the league with 42 homers and 127 runs batted in, but must come out on top in a six-man struggle for the batting title.

Aaron, of course, has always figured he has the advantage. As he explains it:

"The pitcher has only got a ball. I've got a bat. So the percentage, in the weapons is in favor of me."

The schedule isn't. Aaron, currently hitting .319, has just eight games remaining. Dick Groat of St. Louis is leading with a .323 mark, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, San Francisco's Orlando Cepeda and Tommy Davis of Los Angeles are tied at .321 and Cincinnati's Vada Pinson is at .319.

Davis is the defending champion off a .346 average in 1962. Clemente won with .351 in 1961 and Groat won with .325 in 1960. Aaron, who has won all three titles making up the triple crown at different times during his 10-year career, hit a league-leading .355 in 1959.

Al Kaline became the second American Leaguer to hit the 100-RBI mark this season as he drove in four runs Thursday with two homers, a triple and a single in Detroit's 8-6, 13-inning victory over Minnesota.

In the only other game scheduled in either league, Bo Belinsky pitched a five-hitter in the Los Angeles Angels' 7-2 triumph over Baltimore.

The grand old custom of opening with a breather has long since been discarded, with the result that a number of college football teams may have their seasons wrecked this weekend before autumn even dawns officially.

The first full week of the season has some tough scraps scheduled, three of them tonight.

Then on Saturday, nine of the 11 teams in the AP's pre-season big ten—there was a tie for the last spot—get under way. There will be some shattered dreams by midnight. And fall doesn't even start officially until Monday.

UCLA and Pitt are on the slate tonight, with Pitt favored and UCLA upset-minded.

The Orange Bowl will have another tough night game, Miami and Florida State. Miami has George Mira and some fancy sophomores, State has its own prototype passer in Steve Tensi. State Coach Bill Peterson predicts victory.

Tulane, winless last year, and No. 5 Texas, unbeaten in regular play, meet in the other major clash tonight.

On Saturday, No. 1 Southern California opens defense of its national crown against Colorado and No. 2 Mississippi should romp against Memphis State in a night game.

From there on it gets tougher. No. 3 Alabama meets Georgia. No. 4 Oklahoma gets Clemson, no soft touch. No. 6 Northwestern meets Missouri. Northwestern, with Tom Myers throwing, is a touchdown favorite.

No. 7 Wisconsin, the Big Ten champion, meets Western Michigan. And No. 8 Arkansas gets Oklahoma State, at night.

Navy, No. 9 and blessed with a schedule that would make the Green Bay Packers shudder, meets upset-minded West Virginia.

Good scoring club that will be too much for the Patriots unless Babe Parilli has a hot day.

Denver and San Diego have the week off.

Many Fans to Follow the Bobcats

The Hope Bobcats journey to DeQueen tonight where they will furnish entertainment for the Leopards in a non conference tilt that pairs old foes from 'way back.

There's never any quarter given in this contest which traditionally turns into one of the hardest fought games of the year for both squads.

This year the Leopards may be tougher than usual. They have a couple of victories going for them and will be fighting harder than ever, especially against the Bobcats. Then too, they have the home field on their side.

Hope, actually, is yet unproven. Out-conditioned by Texarkana, the Bobcats came back to lick Morrilton. However, little is known about Morrilton. So tonight's contest, if it runs true to form, could give fans an idea about their Cats.

Where the Bobcats hold a weight advantage, the Leopards boast overall speed, especially in the backfield.

The contest should prove a fine one for the fans and it's not unlikely that about 1,000 from Hope will be on hand.

Players Warned to Protect Teeth

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service cautioned high school and college football players today to wear mouth protectors to prevent damage to the mouth and teeth.

Asst. Surgeon General Donald J. Galagan, chief of the division of dental public health and resources, said injuries to the face and mouth account for more than half of all football injuries.

Washington, tied with Ohio State for the No. 10 spot, gets a test from Air Force, in the national television game, Ohio State is idle.

Fighters Adopt a New Name

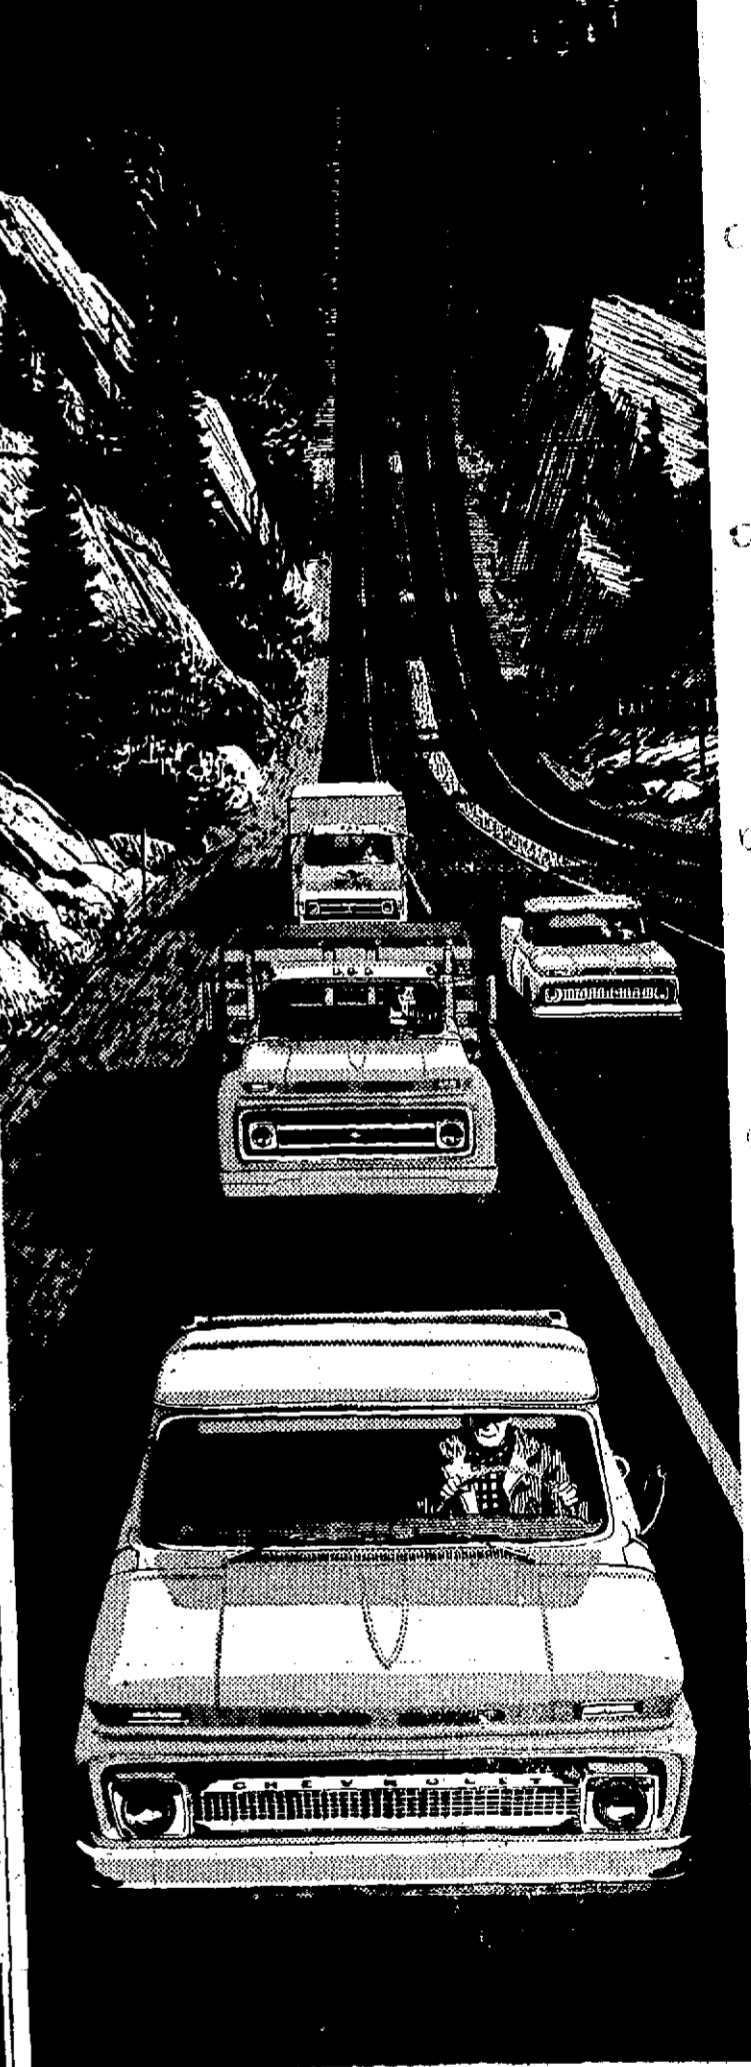

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Newsmen kept complaining with tongue in cheek that Tony Mammarella, a lightweight boxer from Pittsburgh who has won his last nine fights, had a name too long and too hard to pronounce to ever become a champion.

So Thursday night, his manager proudly announced that they were bowing to the power of the press and changing the name. The new moniker is "Mamareli."

It lost all ten games.

This season, which opens here tonight with rugged Texas, Tulane has dropped the label.
